Come on England - sing our song

Last updated 09 June 2004

Along with Euro 2004 comes the usual flurry of football song releases.

We chatted to Neil Murray, lead singer of 4-4-2, who has recorded a version of Dexy's Midnight Runners' 'Come On Eileen', called 'Come On England'.

The song is set to outdo the official Euro 2004 song recorded by The Farm, so he shared his thoughts on what makes a great football tune:

"I read that someone wrote yesterday that a line like "'We are the best, so forget all the rest' isn't exactly going to trouble George Michael." - but that's not what football songs are meant to be doing."

"Football fans aren't going to rap on the terraces, they are going to remember three words and then chant them."
